Jeremy Wallace and Elevated Praise, a dynamic gospel group led by the Spirit of God and birthed through the vision of leader Jeremy Wallace, is announcing the launch of their highly anticipated debut single scheduled to release on August 14, 2012. The song was written to encourage its listeners to create a closer walk with the Lord.

With all of the horrific images finding their way into our homes, "You're All I Need" reminds its audience that a sound prayer life and an abounding relationship with Jesus is all that they need to conquer any trials they are experiencing. One message the gospel group hopes to convey with "You're All I Need" is that Jesus is the only one who can make all things new. The main objective for the new song release is to lead others to Christ while reinvigorating, restoring, and renewing the spirit of God in their listeners.

Jeremy Wallace, creator, and CEO of Elevated Praise, is thoroughly excited about the new single, which will enable him to reach thousands with the message of Jesus Christ. The song was written during an integral part of his own spiritual growth. He states, "At the time this song was being birthed, I was in a place in my life where I felt alone. This time of isolation pushed me into a place of seeking God." Wallace continues, "Through this life experience, the Lord began to show me that he was all I needed."

Jeremy Wallace and Elevated Praise continue to minister through song for the love of Christ. Since 2008, the group has taken part in revivals, outreach ministries, and concerts to help reach the masses with their inspirational message.

"You're All I Need" incorporates melodious and urban rhythms that immediately put the listener into a praise groove that will have their heads bobbing. With its outstanding melodic harmonies, this song creates a unique, distinguishable sound unlike any other. Drawing from both traditional and contemporary gospel music, the chorus contributes a unique, inspired flair unheard of in gospel music. Through the release of this song, Jeremy Wallace and Elevated Praise hope to give their listeners a snippet of the great music to come from their upcoming album Press Through, scheduled to release on February 2013.
